Folkin' Doktor Lemoine: the monthly concert

Doktor Lemoine will be singing a song or two for the folkloving folks at Desperate Literature on Friday, March 11th. Charming all with his tuxedo and camper van, Lemoine will be worth the trip so strum on down for this folk-tastic concert.

Facebook

Christmas Party at Desperate Literature — "the more eggnog, the better"

Join the guys at Desperate Literature for carols and eggnog to see the year out with a bit of tipsy class. Songs will be led by Elena Christina Novak, and remember, the singing gets better the more eggnog you drink — it's magic like that.

If you fancy practicing a little, the following classics will be represented: Jingle Bells; Deck the Halls; God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen; O Holy Night; Joy to the World; Silent Night; We Wish You a Merry Christmas.

Here's the FB event page

James Joyce fans — Celebrate Bloomsday and "Ulysses" at Desperate Literature

Join the guys at Desperate Literature (our favorite bookshop in Madrid) for Bloomsday — the day when Joyce fans gather to celebrate "Ulysses." At Desperate Literature, they'll be reading from the book, singing songs and drinking to the health of dear James himself. For old hands and Bloomsday newbies alike, there'll be enough liquid courage to tempt even the faint of heart, and if we're feeling very bold, we can join itinerant Irishman, Davy Lyons, in some Joyce-era folk tunes.

They'll also be having a small presentation of artwork from Joyce illustrator, Stephen Crowe, and when Aeolus has finally left our lungs, Davy will round the evening with a concert.

How could you miss this?

Café du Printemps at Desperate Literature

Spend your Thursday night at Desperate Literature, our favorite bookshop in Madrid. Enjoy some French style with pastis, Beaujolais Nouveau, stinky cheese and baguettes. Located near metros Santo Domingo and Opera, if you've never been to this wonderful second-hand bookstore or don't know the story behind it, then check out our full post on it here. This place is very special and worth a visit for a number of

Absinthe in the evening at Desperate Literature

Come join the guys at Desperate Literature on Friday night for absinthe (the non-hallucinogenic kind), books and conversation. Our favorite bookstore in Madrid, Desperate Literature is a small, cozy place selling quality second-hand books in different languages, located near metro Santo Domingo.

English Storytelling Hour at Desperate Literature

Bring your kids over to our favorite bookshop for English storytelling, cookies and book browsing on Sunday at 4pm! Desperate Literature is hosting the first of an exciting new weekly tradition called 'Cuentos y Cookies'. We also happen to know the story-teller herself, Emma, so we can assure you that you and your children will be in very good hands!

So get your shoelaces tied up, kids — they've got a story for you!

Desperate Literature — Hot Cocktails & Warm Books at 8pm

On Thursday evening at 8pm, the guys at Desperate Literature, our favorite bookshop in Madrid, would like to treat you to some mulled wine, cider and whiskey. There will be music too. Can you really say no to that? Located near metros Santo Domingo and Opera, if you've never been to this wonderful second-hand bookstore or don't know the story behind it, then check out our full post on it here. This place is very special and worth a visit for a number of reasons that you'll discover when you go.

Tensión Cultural – live music, words & drinks at Desperate Literature book store

If you haven't been to Desperate Literature yet, then read our post on it here. This charming international book store is located near metros Santo Domingo & Opera, and holds fun events from time to time that always involve a good vibe and good drinks. This Friday's event — Tensión Cultural — will be held from 7-9pm (free). Editors of Radiante Porvenir will read some of their favorite authors. One of the owners, Michael, will discuss weaponized poetry, and J. Chaöten will play bleak

Best Gifts from Madrid

Buying gifts for friends and family in Madrid can be a difficult task. Pretty much everything can be found everywhere nowadays. I often see the same Spanish brand names and products when I walk around my neighborhood in New York. So I think to myself, why did I even bother lugging that bottle of Marqués de Riscal all across the ocean? If you find yourself faced with this same problem (and not inclined to buy your mom a keychain or a magnet), here's a list of well thought-out gift ideas from Madrid. Hope it helps!

First let's quickly name some of the more obvious gift ideas, which are also good but run the risk of being found in your hometown (scroll down if you're all too familiar with these):

Handheld fans, flamenco shawls, ceramic tiles and dishes, paella pans, recipe books, aprons with a flamenco dancer or the flag of Spain, football/soccer jersey, wine, cured ham and sweets with long shelf-lives such as mazapán, turron and polvorones (can be bought at El Riojano or Casa Mira, two very traditional pastry shops in the city center) or a swiss army/pocket knife (best from Toledo but also sold in Plaza Mayor). While it's always best to buy these items from independent sellers (which you will find below), if you're pressed for time you can find absolutely everything at El Corte Inglés, the country's major department store with locations all around.

Now let's move on to the more original gift ideas:

1. Anything from La Violeta

La Violeta is a candy shop located in the center of Madrid. It must be included in this list because it is a typical place where Madrileños buy gifts for other Madrileños. Las violetas are purple-colored sucking candies wrapped in pretty little boxes and ribbon. You can buy them plain or escarchadas, meaning sugar-coated. You can also find cajas de bombones (boxes of chocolates) and many other sweet treats. Prices range from €5 to €15.

Web

Address: Plaza de Canalejas, 6

Metro: Sol and Sevilla

2. Saffron or a pack of mixed Spanish spices for anyone who likes to cook

My sister, Amanda, actually gave me this idea. Her boyfriend's family is originally from the Basque Country. Her father-in-law loves little trinkets from Spain and also makes paella every year for the whole family. So she had the bright idea of buying him a pack of azafrán (saffron). Yes, saffron! It costs peanuts in comparison to what it costs in the States. She bought it at Corte Inglés and he was over the moon when he received it. For non-purists, you can also buy sachets, which is a bag of mixed Spanish spices, also used for making paella. Anyone who likes to cook will enjoy this gift!

3. Berets; can be bought at a charming century-old hat shop right in Plaza Mayor

Founded in 1894, Madrid's oldest hat shop—La Favorita C.B.—is now in the hands of its family's fourth generation. It remains in its original location in Plaza Mayor and sells all types of traditional Spanish hats that make for fun and useful gifts. Amanda gave me this idea too. She bought a black beret for her stylish sister-in-law which cost €19. Although the black beret is traditionally worn in the Basque Country, where it's called a Boina, it very well looked like it could have been bought at Top Shop. I'm sure anyone could rock this look in any city around the world, and they'd have a nice story to tell when someone asked them where they bought it.

Facebook Web

Address: Plaza Mayor, 25

Metro: Sol or Opera

4. Chocolate for dipping churros; can be bought at the famous Chocolatería San Gines (near Sol)

In Spanish, this is simply called chocolate a la taza or chocolate caliente. However, for English-speakers this can be quite confusing—this is not just hot chocolate. It refers to the thick chocolate that you dip churros into. When my husband's relatives from California were visiting, they bought bags and bags of this chocolate as a present for all their friends back home. It was a hit! And it's not exclusive for dipping churros, you can also use it for dipping strawberries, bananas—anything you like! You can buy it in bags by the kilo at Madrid's most famous churros shop, Chocolatería San Ginés, open 24/7 and just a stone's throw from Sol.

Facebook Web

Address: Pasadizo de San Gines, 5

Metro: Sol

5. Peseta; for millions of small gift ideas made in Madrid, using fabrics from around the world (in Malasaña)

Named after Spain's former currency—las pesetas—this charming store was founded by Laura Martínez del Pozo around ten years ago. She collects fabrics from all over the world and uses them to make unique, creative and very handy items, from tablet and laptop cases to handbags and wallets. They even sell beautiful shoes, also typical from Spain—espadrilles and alpargatas—though with a nice twist as the fabric is a hundred percent unique. Seeing as these everyday items are useful for everyone, you're sure to find great gifts here.

You can also find Peseta's products sold at an awesome book store and cafe near Callao called La Central, which will talk more about below.

Facebook Web

Address: c/ Noviciado, 9

Metro: Noviciado

6. Summer shoes; can be found in stores everywhere (also in Peseta)

alpargatas at the top and mallorquinas at the bottom

Esparto (espadrilles), alpargatas and mallorquinas are the three most popular summer shoe styles originating from Spain. All can be found in any colour and in any standard shoe store (the center is littered with typical shoe stores, especially around Plaza Mayor and Calle Carmen which is right off of Sol). The latter two styles are unisex, so you're bound to find something for both your male and female friends and family. Since Spain is well-known for its amazing shoes, why not wow them with some Spanish summer footwear they can strut around their own city in style? Plus you don't have to limit yourself to the traditional ones. You can find snazzier versions too. You can also check out our post on "3 Places to Find Espadrilles in Madrid" for more recommendations.

This photo is from a new store called Alpargatus which is located just off of Plaza Mayor on Calle Postas. They have all types of alpargatas, espadrilles and mallorquinas, plus other souvenirs. It's really convenient.

Facebook

Address: C/ Postas, 20 (just a few steps away from Plaza

Mayor)

Metro: Sol or Opera

Or check out another post of ours dedicated solely to espadrilles: "3 Places to Find Espadrilles in Madrid"

8. Traditional gloves with silk lining from 100-year-old glove shop in Sol

Just a note—I couldn't get a photo because the owner closed the shop for the whole weekend to go to Lisbon and watch the football match...

Believe it or not, Spain still has entire shops dedicated solely to gloves! One of Madrid's most well-known and oldest glove shops is called Guantes Luque, nestled between the streets of Sol and Sevilla. Entering the shop is an experience in and of itself. These elegant gloves take you back to another era, when items were not mass produced and were meant to last a lifetime. Understandably on the expensive side, these traditional Spanish gloves are not only beautiful, but have silk lining which is a godsend in winter.

No web, but they're on Yelp Address: c/ Espoz y Mina, 3 Metro: Sol, Gran Vía or Sevilla

7. Gift Basket — 3 simple and delicious ingredients

image from gastronosfera.com

When I asked around for good gift ideas, one expat said that he always brings home a basket of 3 items: pimientos de piquillo (roasted red peppers), aceitunas campo reales (olives) and a really fancy aceite de oliva (olive oil). After speaking with many foreigners living in Spain, it became clear that campo real olives are a major hit among the gift-giving crowd. Though if you don't like olives, you can always replace them with a bottle of wine (my favorite red is Ribera and my favorite white is Albariño), a box of marzipan from Toledo or sweets from La Violeta (mentioned #1).

Where to buy: while you can buy these items all over the city and of course at El Corte Inglés, we recommend you go to Mercado de Antón Martín or Mercado de San Fernando. These markets are very traditional, unlike many of the others that have become over-priced and over-touristy. You can also go to Qué Rico Tó, mentioned #2 on this list.

Mercado de Antón Martín

Facebook

Address: C/ Santa Isabel, 5

Metro: Antón Martín Mercado de San Fernando

Facebook

Address: C/ Embajadores, 41

Metro: Lavapiés or Embajadaroes

8. Spanish Comic Books

For your alternative or comic-book loving friends, a Spanish comic could be a really cool gift. It's always fun to read comics in other languages, especially because the drawings and images help you figure out the story. But of course this gift isn't for everyone. The above photo is of El Coleccionista, a well-known comic shop in Lavapiés with a wide collection. My sister, Amanda (also in the photo), bought a few rare books for her friends here. When I asked Amanda if I could include her photo in this article, she said of course—she'd be happy to support any type of independent shop like this one which make up the backbone of a city's personality and charm. I've also just found out that one of the world's best comic stores is located in Madrid too, it's called Akira Comics and is located a bit further out in the city.

El Coleccionista

Address: C/ Tribulete, 5

Metro: Lavapiés

9. Second-hand books with personality from Desperate Literature

At Desperate Literature, a new international bookstore located in the center of Madrid (close to the Royal Palace), you can find good quality used books in English, Spanish and French, many of which are related to Spain and can make for a great, personalized gift. Also, this bookstore has a nice story behind it, as its three young owners—Michael, Corey and Craig—have opened used international bookstores in Santorini, Greece and in Brooklyn, New York. With the recent opening of Desperate Literature in Madrid, they aim to provide a literary haven for travellers, expats and Madrileños alike. Here's a long article on Desperate Literature.

Web

Facebook

Address: c/ Campomanes, 13

Metro: Santo Domingo and Opera

10. New books and much more from a La Central, an ultra hip bookstore/cafe near Callao

While my first suggestion would be to go to Desperate Literature, if you're looking for all kinds of new books in Spanish (i.e. children's, novels, poetry, you name it) or other gift ideas such as board games, notebooks and fun nicknacks, then this is the store you should be going to.

Facebook Web

Address: Postigo de San Martín 8

Metro: Callao

11. Trinkets from a Funky Madrid Gift Shop called Curiosite

As far as gift shops go, this one is quite original. At Curiosite, you can get maps of Malasaña and Chueca for €12, which look great framed, as well as tons of other fun little tchotchkes. This gift is recommended for someone who has lived or spent a good amount of time in Madrid.

Facebook

Web

Address: c/ Corredera Alta de San Pablo, 28

Metro: Tribunal

Any other gift ideas? Please share! We'll be happy to add more to this list □